TEACHING AND MENTORING

COURSES CO-TAUGHT AT UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA SCHOOL OF MEDICINE

COURSE TITLE	COURSE DESCRIPTION	DATES TAUGHT
Principles of Psychotherapy	This post-graduate course is designed to train psychiatry residents and fellows in the practice of psychotherapy. It is co-taught among MD and Ph.D. faculty throughout the residency and fellowship years of post-doctoral medical students pursuing child and adolescent psychiatry. I am responsible for teaching the following topics: behavioral therapy; cognitive-behavioral therapy; eating disorders and body image; feminist therapy; self-care and burnout; substance use disorders/addictions; and cultural competency in professional practice.	Spring, 2015 Spring, 2016 Fall, 2016 Spring, 2017 Fall, 2017

FORMAL COURSES TAUGHT & COURSE EVALUATIONS AT UNLV

COURSE NUMBER	COURSE TITLE	COURSE DESCRIPTION
PSY 451	Basic Principles of Psychotherapy	This upper-level undergraduate course is designed to acquaint psychology majors with the basic principles of psychotherapeutic practice.
PSY 750	Diversity in Psychology	The principal goal of this graduate course is to train students to be multi-culturally competent psychologists. It is a required course for doctoral students in the clinical psychology program at UNLV.
PSY 726	Intervention with Adults	This graduate course explores the science, practice, and art of major therapeutic interventions for a variety of Axis I and Axis II disorders in adults. It is a required course for doctoral students in the clinical psychology program at UNLV.

The mean course evaluation ratings listed below reflect student responses to the question “Overall, this is an excellent instructor” on a 4-point scale from Strongly Disagree (1) to Strongly Agree (4). In addition to evaluating students’ ratings of my performance as an instructor, I frequently measure whether students’ knowledge of the subject matter increases after completing the course. To do this, students complete a 10-item test of basic course material on the first and last day of class. The mean scores of these evaluations on the first day of class are generally around 4/10 and on the last day of class are around 9/10, indicating that students learn over the course of the semester.
